AN ALLEGORY

A BOULDER lies on the side of a mountain. It is a huge mass of quartz and granite, sparkling in the sunlight. From its perch one can look down over the sunlit valley, green and yellow with verdant growth, and the river winding its lazy way along like a huge snake with a little hamlet nestled close to its banks.

Beside this huge rock a little colony of ants are hard at work. One by one the little sightless creatures crawl over the rough ground and take a grain of dirt away, carrying it back where they are building their new city. One by one they come, and go, following the trail with uncanny precision. They are intent upon their work and, with a persistence characteristic of their species, they proceed with their operations. The huge rock shifts an inch or so and forces the ants to change their path, but heedless of this they continue.

Suddenly the still of the valley is disturbed by a sharp crack! Undermined by the work of the little ants the huge boulder is dislodged. It literally leaps out into the air and starts rolling and bouncing down the mountain side. A gradual roar begins to sound throughout the valley as the rolling missile gathers speed, dislodging rocks, pulling trees up by their roots and loosening dirt and sand in its wake. Faster and louder the huge mass of debris falls! The valley is a turmoil of uproar and confusion.

When the confusion at last subsides the village at the foot of the mountain is a mass of littered ruins. The bodies of men, women, and children lie mangled and crushed and for miles around the forests and fields lie in ruin.

Far above, on the side of the hill, a colony of ants are busily building their miniature city.

A sincere and pleasant "Thank you," a "Thank you" with a smile has a very real intrinsic value. "It blesses him that gives and him that takes."

School Activities

The Juniors still have charge of Assembly—and are determined that the remaining program shall be the best ever.

The "Freshies," "Sophs," and Juniors are waiting patiently for the Senior orations to begin. When do they start?

Langhorne High has advanced at least one step toward a better school—we are at last going to have our High School paper, the PLAYWICKIAN, printed. Be sure to buy a copy and so help to keep the custom.

A checker tournament, a new but yet an old indoor past-time, has been started. Representatives of each of the classes are now playing to secure the Class champions. Following this, the class champions will play for the school title. Speed up the eliminations so we can see some real checker playing.

The Junior Bake Sale was a huge success as most of you have heard. Congratulations, Juniors.

Several things which the different classes are looking forward to are:—

Seniors—The trip to Washington, which the Seniors take every year.

Juniors—Their Class rings, which they hope are going to be a bit better looking than ever before.

Everybody—Reading the new PLAYWICKIAN.

SPECIAL ASSEMBLY

Friday 26 at one o'clock, the school assembled in room 1 to hear the declamation contest from which three persons were chosen, two to recite and one as alternate, to represent Langhorne in the Inter-Scholastic Meet at Perkasio-Sellersville, March 19.

The program opened with a song by the school and a Bible Reading. The chorus then sang their selections for the meet under the direction of Miss Hartz. Fifteen persons are to be chosen from the whole group to journey to Perkasio-Sellersville. This was followed by the declamations, the Faculty acting as judges.

MARGARET PAUL

After a few announcements the Assembly was adjourned. The teachers then held a meeting to choose the three declamers which are:

DAVID PAUL

JACQUELYN ROBERTS

MADALINE GRIFFIN

The members from the Glee Club to be chosen for the meet will be picked at some near date.

The Rev. Henry Cunningham of the Presbyterian Church, spoke at the High School, Monday, February 15. He took the word High from Langhorne High School and made this his theme. The letters of this word represented Health, Intellect, Greatness, and Honor.

He was very interesting and everyone enjoyed his talk. Mr. Cunningham acts as an inspiration to most of the High School people and it is hoped that he will come soon again.

The girls have at last started their Basketball season — they really have a good team. Have you seen them play? Don't miss any of their games.

The ALUMNI ASSOCIATION of the High School will sponsor an April Fool Dance on April 1. Everybody is welcome! Come out and boost your Alumni.

The High School appropriately celebrated George Washington's Birthday, February 22. Our Principal, Mr. Thomas, gave an interesting lecture, accompanied with illustrations, depicting the human side of Washington's life. He gave numerous incidents showing the true character of Washington, which were thoroughly enjoyed by the student body.

Following this Mr. Joseph Zolot, of the Jesse W. Soby Post of the American Legion, gave a talk, telling of the characteristics of Washington that cause us to honor him. This also proved interesting.

School was then dismissed for the day.

YE SENIORITY

Here is a chance for the Seniors to show their ability! A large percentage of the class has entered a League of Nations Contest which will be given in the schools throughout the nation. This examination will be given in March and the winner of this school will receive his reward at commencement. We feel sure that there will be a great deal of competition and therefore, each senior will have to do his best.

The Senior girls have organized their basketball team and elected "Peg" Rickert, Captain. Next week they will challenge the Freshmen, and in turn the Sophomores and Juniors. Come on girls! Put up a big FIGHT with the other classes and win a number of points for our class. Don't forget that we want to see "32" on the pennant again this year. Show the boys what we can do!

The L. M. H. S. Seniors have begun work on their year book, which will be published in April. The class is expecting a very superior publication this Spring. This year it is being run on an entirely new scheme, suggested at a meeting of the staff at the residence of Mr. Beck, class dean.

The Year Book Staff consists of:

|----------------------------------|----------------|
| DAVID PAUL, Editor-in-chief | |
| MADALINE GRIFFIN, Associate Ed. | |
| EARLE RICHARDSON, Bus. Manager | |
| CORA LaRUE, Historian | |
| PAUL JOHNSON, Prophet & Humorist | |
| ED. BAUMEISTER, Asst. Humorist | |
| JOHN BANKO, Sports Writer | |
| WILLIAM GREIM | } Illustrators |
| WILLIAM PAUL | |

The book is expected to be quite full of humor and interesting records of bygone days in old L. M. H. S. So why not buy a Year Book? It will recall memories of your earlier school days; it will try to make you laugh; it will give you a complete record of the Class of '32 through its four years in the old "Square Bricks."

Only three Seniors failed to reach the average mark in spelling when the series of tests were given several weeks ago. These pupils are taking a special course in spelling. We are certainly proud of our class, as its average, this year, is the highest yet attained.

JUNIOR CLASS NEWS

The Junior Class wishes to thank everyone who helped to make our bake sale a success. We think we had a pretty good bake sale, and we only hope we can have 'our dance' now.

* * *

The Juniors are busy talking about class rings. We hope to have them soon, and all you seniors who want them better let us know pretty soon.

Extra! Extra! The Junior Class has at last succeeded in getting a class orchestra started. There are seven members and they practice every week. We should be hearing from them pretty soon. Well, don't get excited; they are going to play in assembly soon, so be prepared.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

The Sophomore class has had an urge to earn money. A Bake sale was postponed because of Lent, so it was decided to sell candy at some of the Basketball games.

The Sophomore girls play the Senior girls in basketball in the near future. Victory is hoped for. The girls on the class team are, Betty Griffin, Margaret Greim, Mary Bond, Edith Ahlum, Dorothy Smith and Margaret Paul.

The Boys of the class have conquered the Freshmen and Juniors in Soccer and lost to the Seniors. They will soon play the Freshmen in basketball.

Here's hoping for a successful season both in sports and candy.

M. P.

FRESHMAN FOLLIES

The Freshmen played the Sophomores at soccer but were beaten by the score of one to nothing. Jack Christine refereed the game. Mr. Stompler was the Freshman coach.

The Freshman girls are having a basketball team. They plan to play the other classes.

The former Freshman Civics class now takes history while the former history class takes civics.

The Class Treasury is still below what it should be as the dues are not paid at all regularly. As the class will need the money later on, it is advisable that the Freshman "get going" on the dues.

The Freshman boys plan to have an ice hockey team as soon as there is any ice on which to play.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

Last assembly a spelling bee was held by the members of the eight grade. The captain of the first team was Anna Savage. The Captain of the second team was Catherine Cook. The bee was won by Anna Savage's team. The last one to remain standing was Mildred Newbold.

After the spelling bee a song was sung, and then the assembly was over.

POODLE LUCK

PINKEY was a French Poodle. His head, the end or his little tail, and his paws were the only parts of him on which hair grew. He looked very comical to the gang when he first moved to town. They barked in a mocking way at him and followed the big car, in which he sat, for several blocks. Pinkey just acted dignified and pretended not to notice them.

Now Pinkey was an awfully babied dog. He belonged to society. His mistress' first words were, "My! What a cute little puppy!" And so he was to the ladies of society. But to the gang, Pinkey was a scream. They couldn't believe that any intelligent dog would allow himself to be shaved in such a crazy way.

One afternoon, some days after his master had settled in town, Pinkey was in the garden. He wasn't being watched, and when he wasn't looking, a great black cat dropped from a garden wall. He landed silently and looked at Pinkey. Suddenly the dog realized that he was being stared at. He rose calmly and looked at the cat. He wasn't afraid; but he was curious. All of a sudden the cat spat. The dog froze to the spot. He had never seen a cat mad before and now it frightened him. As he was beginning to wonder when his mistress would come, Pinkey saw an old black dog slinking around the corner, and Pinkey, thinking himself the victim, took to his heels. After gaining the back steps he looked around and saw the cat up a tree while the black dog stood yelping at the foot.

Pinkey at once felt relieved but still clung to the steps. Soon the black dog left the tree and came over to Pinkey. After walking several times around the poodle he decided that it was a dog. Soon the two were fast friends.

Several days later the master's son had Pinkey out on a leash. As they strolled along the riverfront, a mangey hound rushed out from behind a barrel. Straight at Pinkey he ran. The boy kicked out savagely but received a nip in the leg. With that he dropped the leash and ran.

The hound pounced upon Pinkey and nearly knocked the breath out of him. Soon the whole waterfront was filled with yelping dogs, all after Pinkey.

Just as Pinkey was about to give up hope, the old black dog of his acquaintance rushed into the mob and began throwing dogs right and left. Soon they had all been dispersed and our black hero went over to Pinkey. The poodle arose and was escorted by his black friend home to his weeping mistress and saw the boy punished for deserting him.

The next morning Pinkey saw the whole pack of curs in front of the house, and every tail was wagging. At the head of the pack stood our hero, the black dog.

As Pinkey went towards the dogs, a great black cat raced across the lawn into the lilac bushes, and the whole gang, Pinkey included, gave chase.

BOOK REVIEW

"The Bridge of San Luis Rey" is a colorful story of old Peru. Near the city Lima a great bridge falls and a certain priest believes that it was no accident but a decision of God that caused the fall.

The five travelers crossing the bridge are the main characters in the story Wilder built, founded on the material gathered by the priest concerning these people.

The old Marquesa's story is the first. She is a tragic figure consumed with an all absorbing love for her intellectual daughter who ignores her as long as she can and when she can no longer ignore, wounds her. The Marquesa can think of nothing but ways to make her daughter notice her and be proud of her. She writes brilliant letters which have since been published and praised. She tries to forget her child in drink and becomes a target for ridicule.

When the little convent girl, her maid and companion, unconsciously shows her the beauty of courage and unselfishness, the Marquesa realizes how selfish and cowardly is her love for her daughter and writes a new splendid letter to her child. Then she takes the little maid, who has shown her courage thru an act of self sacrifice and goes back to her city home from a chapel, where she has been praying for her daughter.

They cross the Bridge of San Luis Rey and fall with it.

The next story is about twin brothers, Manuel and Esteban. They are brought up at the convent orphanage and are sent out into the world as scribes. They are so alike that no one can tell them apart and as they are inseparable it is even more difficult. They have made up a secret language which no one can speak but themselves and this increases their intimacy.

Manuel falls in love with a beautiful actress, the Periochle, for whom he writes letters. She neither knows nor cares about his love but Esteban sees it and realizes that their close bond has been broken. He would leave and not interfere with his brother's life, but Manuel will not hear of it and swears he does not care for the Periochle.

Esteban is persuaded, but a few months later Manuel is taken sick and in his ravings he reveals that deep in his heart, perhaps unconsciously, he hates his brother and curses him because he has come between him and his lover. Esteban begs forgiveness and when Manuel is sufficiently controlled he gives it to him but curses him again and again in delirium.

Finally he dies and Esteban wanders aimlessly and sadly thru Lima. The Mother Superior who brought him up tries to help him, but fails. At last a sad old sea captain persuades him to go to sea, where he can forget his troubles or wait undisturbed for death. When Esteban is drunk he promises to do so. The next day he goes to buy a farewell present for the Mother Superior. He crosses the bridge and is killed.

Then comes the story of Uncle Pio, a child of nobility who ran away in early youth and earned a living by gathering and reporting gossip in hotels, and as stage hand.

His great joy was in worshipping beautiful women, and he was never far from the stage.

Story Contest

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Something new and different. A story contest is about to start in order that we may find out our future authors.

We want every one to try their skill in writing a story. The following are the rules:—

1. Story due the 2nd Monday of each month.
2. Must not be over 1000 words.
3. Must be original.

You can hand your story to a member of the staff or drop it in the contribution box, and the best story will be printed in the next issue of the Playwickian.

One day in a cafe he heard a girl of twelve sing. He saw great promise in her and took her home to train. This was the Periochle, and he taught her how to act. He taught her to make the audience laugh, to make it cry. He taught her the technicalities and the clever perfections that only a clever audience recognizes but which influence everyone. He took her to places where she saw competition. He kept her ambition aflame with bitter sarcasm and criticism.

One thing he could not teach her, and that was to love as a true person. She was the mistress of the viceroy, she knew how to flirt and to make love on the stage, but true, great unselfish love never came.

Then she began to long to be respectable and left the stage. In vain Uncle Pio urged her to come back, but not until she had smallpox and lost her beauty did he give up. Still he tried to see her, give her courage and strength and love. She refused but he tricked her into meeting him and made her promise to give him her son for a year that he might teach and guide him. At length she consented and Uncle Pio took the delicate, precious child of the Periochle back to Lima to be educated. They too were killed when the bridge fell.

Thornton Wilder writes these tales of the people on the bridge. Did they die because it was decreed or because of an accident? Did the God that the priest felt to be so full of wonders perform this miracle? Read "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," and decide.

LECTURE ON WASHINGTON

On Monday, February 29th, Mr. McCue and Mr. Knight, two officials of the B. & O. railroad, came to school and gave us a very interesting lecture on the city of Washington. The slides which accompanied Mr. McCue's talk were also very interesting. He ended his talk by reading a poem about the Unknown Soldier which was very pathetic but beautiful, and after the assembly was over we were given copies of this poem.

I think every one enjoyed Mr. McCue's lecture and we hope the Seniors and everyone else has a better idea of Washington and its importance as our capital city.

Langhorne Beaten By Bryn Athyn Academy 41-27

Langhorne went to Bryn Athyn on the 13th to be beaten in an exceedingly slow and uninteresting game.

Langhorne played out of form and couldn't move from their tracks.

Mather was high scorer for Langhorne with 4 field goals and a foul shot.

The line-up was:—

| Name | Pos. | F. G. | F. S. | P. |
|-----------|------|-------|-------|----|
| Mather | L F | 4 | 1 | 2 |
| Downing | R F | 2 | 0 | 0 |

"L" Beaten By Bristol

Langhorne was beaten on the home court on Feb. 16, which resulted in the worst beating that has been dealt to Langhorne for many, many a year by any team.

Our team was entirely at Bristol's mercy during the whole game. The final score was 41-7.

Langhorne Jr's Beaten 25-18

Langhorne "Jayvees" lost a fast game to Bristol on the 16th of February at Gartner's Casino.

The game was a steady, speedy game from start to finish, and no easy sailing on either side.

Yardley Trips Langhorne

Langhorne played a very exciting game with Yardley at the Langhorne floor on Washington's Birthday.

The game was fast and exciting throughout. High scorer was Christine with three field goals and two foul shots. Final score—31-23.

Langhorne Jr. Varsity won from Yardley by defeating them 30-12 in Gartner's Casino on Feb. 22. Dougherty was high scorer.

Langhorne Trounces Bensalem 24-11

Langhorne gave Bensalem a decided trouncing at the home floor, in Gartner's Casino, and clearly showed that they were the best team.

At the half time, the score was 5-3 favor of Langhorne. But at the beginning of the second half, they gradually but surely pulled away from their opponents.

Final score was 24-11 favor of Langhorne.

The starting line-up was as follows:

| Name | Pos. | F. G. | F. S. |
|--------------|------|-------|-------|
| V. Mather | L.F. | 4 | 1 |
| J. Downing | R.F. | 3 | 0 |
| J. Christine | C. | 1 | 0 |
| D. Paul | L.G. | 1 | 1 |

"Jayvee's" Win Easily 35-6

The Junior Varsity easily outpointed the "Bensalem Babes" to the tune of 35-6. It was decidedly an uninteresting game. Jr. Ruble alone netted 19 points in this game.

Langhorne Loses Last Game To Morrisville 26-17

Langhorne lost their last game of the season to Morrisville on the 26th of February in Morrisville's "Gym" and thereby lost their hopes of winning the Championship for the second year straight.

The game at Morrisville was a slow, cautious game. Langhorne put up many rallies throughout the game, but all were unavailing.

The score was ten to five at the half. The final score was 26-17. Ruble was high scorer for Langhorne with 2 field goals and 2 foul shots.

The game was viewed by a large crowd both of Morrisville and Langhorne "rooters." Nearly everyone recognized this game was the one which was the deciding one of the play-off teams.

JV's Lose to Morrisville

The Junior Varsity also lost the hard contested game the same night to the Morrisville Junior Varsity to the tune of 24 to 18.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

After weeks of worry and uncertainty, the girls of L. H. S. organized a Basketball team. One practice was held at Gartner's Casino, directly following which the girls participated in a game with Edgewood. Though defeated by the score of 28-20, the girls were anxious and eager to keep on with their playing.

A second game with Edgewood was held on their floor, Wednesday evening, February 10, ending with the score 21-16, in favor of the opposing team. Fair play was very noticeable throughout the game on both teams. Margaret Rickert, '32, Langhorne's star forward, showed her skill by scoring a large majority of the points.

Practices have been held at Gartner's Casino every Tuesday afternoon.

Thursday afternoon, March 4, a game is scheduled with Fallsington and Friday evening, March 5, Langhorne girls are journeying to Yardley accompanied by Miss Collins and Miss Hartz, the Coaches, where a good game is looked for against the strong opposing team.

BASEBALL AND TRACK COMING

Now that the basketball season is practically over, the schools in our league are talking track and baseball.

We are looking forward to it, also. Our prospects are quite fair. Most of the track team will be back with the exception of Davis, Phillips, Rice, and Buckman. Of the baseball team we will miss Rice and Davis, along with Phillips, Brown Bros., Adams, and Crummer.

The material that is present for this year's work has had quite a bit of experience, for many of this year's candidates for both track and baseball have had much experience from last year. Quite a few received varsity letters.

We therefore look forward with great anticipation to the coming Penn Relays in which we will have a team undoubtedly entered and we hope to carry off some of the honors. Also we hope to win the Championship of the Lower Bucks County Interscholastic League in baseball.

Come on everybody, and help these teams by giving them your wholehearted support, and co-operation. See if we can't make this a bigger and better spring athletic season.

OFFICE BOYS CHATTER

By Prof. IMA NUTT

Wm. Forbes has just added two new hairs to his mustache. Both are doing nicely.

This column suggests that Lydia Davenport be examined for "St. Vitus Dance." We haven't seen her sit still for one minute at a time.

The inevitable has happened. The girls at last have a basketball team that can score.

Read 'em and Weep Day was celebrated February 11th.

Some things we would like to do:

1. Abolish Physics Class.
2. Build a Gym.
3. Be next President.
4. Axe the man who writes this column.

The girls have been complaining about being troubled by a masher. Although they haven't disclosed any names we know it's Edward Baumeister, "the flirt."

This column is sponsoring a nation-wide Limerick Contest. This month's Limerick:

There was an old fisher named Fischer
Who fished from the edge of a fissure.
Then a fish with a grin
Pulled the fisherman in;
Now they are fishing the fissure for Fischer.

RULES: The last line is supplied.

1. Read this Limerick over.
2. Repeat it to yourself several times.
3. Write it from memory on a piece of paper.
4. Crumple this paper and toss it in the fire.
5. Members of the staff are ineligible to compete in this contest.
6. The contestants must live in Alaska and be unmarried.

PRIZES:

- 1st. A beautiful portrait of Washington (on a two cent stamp).
- 2nd. A portable auditorium.
- 3rd. A telescopic Daschund.

Lydia asked Miss Wildman if spinach was green macaroni. Was that the human thing to do?

In commemoration of Washington's 200th anniversary the Unemployment Apple Committee has decided to sell cherries and axes instead of apples.

More Truth Than Poetry

"Tell me, young Washington, who was he
Who dared chop down the cherry tree?"

He knew 'twas vain to tell a lie,
He saw it in his father's eye,
And so with aspect shamed, yet bold
Said, "Popo, if the truth be told
I'll tell it for I'm your own dear son.
I cut that tree, I'm the guilty one."
Then papa said, "My beamish boy,
Come to my arms, it gives me joy
To know you could not lie, my lad,
Not even to your stiff old dad."

M O R A L

This shows the value, then, of tact,
Ability to say and act
Correctly at right time and place,
To save your skin without disgrace.
