Valedictorian gives thumbs up to class of 2010

Looking back on our years at Neshaminy, I think it's safe to say we seniors have experienced quite a bit more then the average senior class. We endured the narrow, winding horseshoe of a building that was the old Neshaminy, where we were packed tightly into the hallways like sardines. We quickly grew accustomed to the signs warning us of asbestos, construction beams coming through classrooms (I just so happened to be in that classroom), and the roof of the old building catching on fire. I think it's safe to say the day construction ended was a happy day for all of us. Being the first senior class in the new Neshaminy High School has been quite an experience, especially with another 700 freshman to crowd the same hallways we once considered spacious. As a class, we've been forced to adapt to a constantly changing environment.

While it may seem like our experiences in a constantly changing Neshaimy High School are no more significant than any other class, I believe that we will be better suited for the path ahead. While we will technically always be the Neshaminy High School class of 2010, we won't always be together -- We'll ne thrown into new environments and forced to work and lean aside people from all over the world -- and, yet again, we'll be forced to adapt. As newly independent adults, we'll no doubt be pushed to the limits of our respective comfort zones and challenged in ways we've never been challenged before. Luckily for us, we'll be ahead of the curve, as individuals who have grown accustomed to adaptation. As strong a graduating class as we are, I believe that if we embrace change with open arms and optimism, success will undoubtedly find us. Good luck in all of your future endeavors.

Student Council representatives bid adieu

We finally made it! Graduation day is here. We've come from our first overwhelming days at Neshaminy High School walking through the halls of the old building to being ready to face the real world.

Although many of us are excited to leave Neshaminy we should always remember some of the good times we had. Some memories include the class trips, proms, gym night, beefy cheesy nachos and football games.

Remember the friends you have made throughout the years, and the people you shared the hallways with. These people have affected your life in ways you may not even realize yet.

All in all our times at Neshaminy have been crazy. Have a fun, safe summer and be careful. I wish everyone the best of luck in the years to come! Congratulations Class of 2010, you did it!

Jaclyn Huston Student Council Vice President Penn State Class of 2014

Looking back on it now, Neshaminy left with me a lot of good memories. Sophomore year, the big dilemma on campus was the construction and when it would ever get done.

Three years later, the topic of conversation is FOX 29 News and why the reporters keep calling it Neshaminy, PA. I guess I live in Neshaminy now.

There are a lot of things that make Neshaminy form such a unity in our school. Being a member of a sports team or any of the other many clubs that make Neshaminy so unique help form the unity.

As a member of Student Council, it is our obligation to help organize school functions and promote school spirit among the students in all grade levels. Finally, I would like to leave advice to underclassmen...get involved! It is so worth it in the end.

Brian Titus Student Council Acting President Carnegie Melon Class of 2014

Salutatorian salutes goodbye It has been years since we started and faculty who have been important to school, but on the other hand, it is strange to think that our time together is almost over. We have finally reached our day to graduate. The tassel has been worth the hassle. In the three years we spent under various roofs (both those of the old and new buildings) of Neshaminy High School, our graduating class had innumerable great times. These included Gym Night (Go Red Team!), Redskin Football games and tailgates, the Junior Class Trip, proms, and the frenzied Code Blue of sophomore year... just to name a few. We connected as a class, despite our different individual interests, to become friends friends with stories, laughs, tears, and memories. Experiences will come and go, but I am optimistic that friendships will remain. Stay in touch with the classmates Cornell University Class of 2014 you during your time at Neshaminy. We have made it through to graduation not only because of our intelligence and drive, but also because of the support from those who care about us.

Finally, graduation is a time for celebration and looking to the future. "Every minute from this minute now, we can do what we like anywhere" (Open Your Eyes–Snow Patrol). You will always miss the shots you do not take, so be sure to try new things and take risks. Experiencing new things can help us to find what will make our lives exciting, worthwhile, and complete.

Class President takes a trip down memory lane

Dear Class of 2010,

I honestly don't know where to begin, it's simply too hard to summarize a series of life changing experiences that we call high school into one article. However, I can list our qualities that make our class outstandingly more unique from all the others in the

Sophomore year, we experienced the original Neshaminy Paradise. Being educated solely in the old building until December came around when the first section of the new building was open. Long sweaty walks from B hall to the bottom of F hall will never be forgotten. We are the last class to ever experience the legacy of the old building and will forever miss Code Blues caused by misguided construction workers. Also, we instated the first sophomore class trip in thirteen years, which was a trip to Hershey Park and it was a great success. The sophomore dinner dance's Orient theme, elegant decorations and vibrant atmosphere that all took place in Gym 3 would have made Pennsbury sophomores jealous.

As Junior year came around we began to become more unified We all looked forward to the legendary Junior Class trip and as the trip was every bit as wonderful as we thought it would Night continued to heat up in 2009, which was a tribute to nights. The Junior Prom was also a great high light of our high careers; a night of food and dance at the King's that everyone enjoyed.

As seniors, our final performance of Gym Night, "Passport around the World" solidified our legacy as incredible athletes and dancers that future classes will try to emulate for years to come. Senior Prom was a perfect and magical night at the Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia that everyone enjoyed. Hours of dancing and spending time with our best friends were so priceless that we will vividly recall our prom night to our future grandchildren as a fairy tale.

Now as seniors ending our final days of high school we may tend to reflect on the good and bad times. We may shed a tear over the greatness we are leaving behind or over the unhealed scars that may still bring pain. I say to the Class of 2010, do not throw away the high school scrap books or forget these majestic years. However, do not dwell on what is behind you. Take off your reading glasses and peal your eyes away from the high school scrapbook and gaze into the horizon. We all have bright futures and more control over our destinies than we can even imagine. I am honored to be able to represent the Class of 2010 as Class President because we are good people with endless potential.

D'Donnell wishes final farewell to senior class

Holy cannoli! Who can believe it is already that time of the year? The sun is shining, the birds are chirping, and high school seniors across the nation are going absolutely ape wild. Yes my friends—we are moments away from graduation. I'm sure most of you have been counting down the days until June 9th since September, but hopefully this was done with hesitance and not eagerness. What I mean is this: I hope everyone has cherished their last moments here at Neshaminy rather than dreaded them. Hopefully you have used these last days to perfect your high school experience, not exacerbate it, because high school has been a four-year journey that has elapsed as if it were four minutes.

Remember the diaper days? Yeah, you know what I'm talking about—ninth grade. Well for us, it didn't seem like we were in high school then. Unlike the freshman this year, we felt like we were at the top of the food chain in our schools. We picked on the sixth graders and even got our own form of a graduation or move up day. Then finally, our paths converged into one as we officially became the Neshaminy High School Class of 2010. From then on it was nothing but a learning experience. We learned that high school is nothing like middle school, that L-Town can't be stopped, that releasing mice is a bad idea for a senior prank, that Bros should always come first, and that Big Daddy's pizza and Beefy Cheesy Nachos are incredible. Personally, I've learned that the only thing more important than chilling hard, is working hard. Hard work is an asset that trumps intelligence when it comes to high school, and it is one of the only things that will almost ensure success.

Now is the time for us to take everything we have learned and apply it as our paths undergo yet another change. Contrary to our trails after ninth grade, we now diverge and go our separate ways as we move on into the real world. Whether you are going to continue your education, join the Armed Forces, or enter the work world, all of you should leave cherishing the knowledge, experiences and friendships of high school. Without these things we would all be nothing. From here on in, we control our own lives, Charles is never in charge. Strive for happiness and you'll be fine once you get it. Good luck and God Bless.

Kyle O'Donnell

National Honor Society President

Pennsylvania State University- Schrevers Honors College '14

It's finally the end of senior year, and I'm finding it difficult to appreciate my last few days in high school because my mind is refusing to accept the fact that this time has finally come. If anyone truly knows me, then that person understands that I am a terrible decision maker, and the choice about whether or not I'm happy to graduate is no exception. And if anyone really spends a lot of time with me, then he or she won't be surprised to see that I've made a pro-con list to come to a conclusion about this momentous

We'll never have to wake up at 6 a.m. (or 5:36 a.m. in my case) to drag ourselves to school ever again. We'll never have to endure angry secretaries yelling at us for our hemlines or hall aides chasing us down for being a few seconds late for class. We'll never again have to scurry between eight classes in one day, seven of which we probably don't care about. We'll never have to carry around another late pass or bathroom pass, which studies have shown are literally covered with germs. We'll never have to hear the words "You have one minute to get to class, one minute" ever again.

But after leaving Neshaminy, we may never be able to walk down the halls and say "Hi" to 50 friends in a single day. We'll never share another inside joke with a particular teacher between classes or have the ability to laugh at a failing test score. We may not even be able to feel completely comfortable in our new environments, since college and the workplace are going to be rude awakenings for a lot of the students who breezed through high school.

Neshaminy has been the ultimate mix of the things we enjoy and the things we're forced to endure. The most important thing is to appreciate the good, because it makes the bad a whole lot easier to deal with. Never take the things that make you happy for granted. Who would have thought that a junior in my AP Bio class would become one of my favorite people to see every day, or that I would actually miss the days when the boys who sit on either side of me in calculus don't fight about baseball?

I really want to thank Millie for giving me a great year in newspaper, and Gould for giving us the skills to flourish this year without her. Ceej—we fought more often than anything else, but at the end of the day I'm really happy to have run the paper this year at your side. And Ellen, there is no other person who could have done your job; thanks for always being able to nego-

school is both exhilarating and frightening, both accomplished overwhelming. Underclassmen: try your best to experience everything, because we'll never be able to get this time back. In the words of Eric Forman, a character on my favorite television show, "Life is like a train. It's bearing down on you, and guess what? It's going to hit you. So you can either start running when it's far off in the distance, or you can pull up a chair, crack open a beer and just watch it come." Enjoy the ride.

Editor In Chief's Managing Editor final remarks looks to future

I hope to recall my high school experience with positive memories, like a series of permanent snapshots of proms, gym nights, sport's games, and smiling faces embedded into the folds of my memory. But in reality, these memories will always be slightly tainted with recollections of alarms going off a 5:30 am, stress overloads, and unbearable boredom. And for that, please excuse the concession of "thank you's" but I owe my friends this graduation day. They were my sole inspiration for leaving my bed in the morning and shuffling my way to Neshaminy Paradise.

First and foremost, I have to thank the newspaper kids. Being apart of the paper was by far the best experience I have of high school. The friends I have made on newspaper all come from various social groups and backgrounds. From the outside we look like an odd bunch, but through our countless hours of time spent together creating the Playwickian we have formed deep friendships. Without most of them my days at Neshaminy would be miserable.

I can truly say I look forward to 8th period everyday. I found solstice in the Newspaper room, a safe haven from the woes of high school where I can always be myself. Whenever I walk in, a familiar face is always there to listen to my monotonous complaints or make me laugh.

Jenna and CJ, working with you this year has been amazing. I think we made a kickbutt team. Jenna thanks for playing "bad cop" when it was needed because you know I never could, and nobody listens to CJ. You are one of the coolest chicks I know and I'll miss seeing your afro every morning. CJ, I have enjoyed the trials of our love-hate relationship. Your power to make whole rooms of people, including teachers, feel uncomfortable with an inappropriate "that's what she said" joke never ceases to amaze me, and I hope you'll be still cracking them at our reunion in 30 years.

Milly, Amilli, Millz, Millman: you have done an awe some job this year. You came in without any experience and helped and supported us though everything. Without you, my knowledge of funny Youtube videos would be weak and rather embarrassing. Oh, and thanks for not kicking me off paper even though I'm a delin-

To my girl friends, I could not ask for a more fun, caring, protective group of girls. The trust, support, and love you have given me has gotten me through every blunder, break-up, and bruise I have faced. My favorite memories of high school would not exist without you gals by my side. The thought of having to separate from you in august makes me blubber instantaneously.

I look on this day as the beginning of a new era of life, and although I'm thankful to Neshaminy for the memories it has given me, if I ever refer to high school as the "best years of my life" then please, someone hit me with a school bus.

Eller To Musto

Business Editor cracks one last corny joke

It's hard to believe the time has come for us to graduate high school. I can still remember my first day of kindergarten like it was yesterday. Since those early years I've had some unbelievable memories and experiences. Neshaminy High was able to contribute to those many memories (though some not always good.) Whether it be prom, Gym Night, football games, or making new friends and relationships, these are the things I will keep with me my entire

Everyone who has taken part in the newspaper for the past two years, I want to thank you for putting up with me, just as you should thank me for putting up with some of you (kidding, but not really.) We had some great memories together including the infamous wall of quotes, which unfortunately, are too inappropriate to put on here. And Nicole, thanks for going to freakish extents to make my life hell.

I also want to thank my "co-workers" on the management team, Ellen and Jenna. It's been a pretty long ride this year, and I'm glad it was with you two (that's what she said?). Jenna, anyone who can get into that amount of Ivv League schools deserves my respect. I don't know how you did it, because you never seemed too stressed out or overwhelmed. You did an awesome job as Editor in Chief, and I can't think of anyone else who would be better for the job. Tori has some big shoes to fill next year (no pressure, Tori.)

Ellen, the term "love-hate relationship" is the only thing that can accurately describe us for the past two years. I know you remember our first day as Op-Ed editors and the freakishly depressing note the previous editor has left us from the year before. It's funny how we went from that to making that page the most wanted/interesting page in the paper. And let's not forget the whole incident in which you, covered in obnoxiously vibrant makeup, hid behind a construction wall when we walked past Jude Law in Gould/Millman, both of you did an outstanding job as adviser for the Play wickian. Gould, you taught me the importance of hard work and discipline. Millman, I'm going to be honest, we didn't have high hopes for you when you started out. None of us could think that someone with no experience could pull the job off. But you proved us dead wrong and were able to put so much time and effort into making the paper great. You were both great mentors.

Though it hasn't totally sunk in yet, I know I'm going to miss the fun days I've had with you guys, and though there were some rough times, I don't regret any of it. And as for my experience at Neshaminy as a whole, I want to thank everyone, from my teachers, to guidance, to administrators, for an unforgettable high school experience.

McGee welcomes graduates to Neshaminy alumni

Dear Seniors in the NHS Class of 2010,

It gives me great pleasure to be one of the first to welcome you to the evergrowing family of Neshaminy Alumni. You are now among a group of people dating back many decades who can proudly state, "I am a Neshaminy Graduate."

Congratulations on your accomplishment as it marks the culmination of a 13-year pursuit. Take a short break, you have earned it; but not for too long. Though your graduation marks the end of your high school experience, it is just the beginning of a much longer journey; a much more important journey. Continue this journey; pursue your goals; pursue your dreams; pursue your passions; and along the way, help make the world a better place for yourself and others.

Look back on your experiences at Neshaminy: Smile; Reflect; Laugh; Cry; Shake your Head; Be Critical; Celebrate; Give Thanks; as those experiences have helped shape you and prepare you for the challenges yet to come. These experiences will be a part of you forever. Thank you for helping us build our school inside our new facility. Individually and collectively you have left future classes with a positive foundation and climate. I can honestly say that I have enjoyed watching you enjoy your Senior Year.

Again, congratulations and welcome to the club!

Rob McGee, Ph.D. Principal Neshaminy High School

Ritchey reminisces

Dear Class of 2010,

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for making the past three years at Neshaminy High School memorable for your families, teachers and administrators. It has been my honor and privilege to serve as your class principal.

I will look back fondly on this group and remember you as the first class that I followed and watch grow into young adults. You have set the bar at an extremely high level for future classes and for that you should be proud.

High School is a small piece of your life, but it is one that you will always remember. As time goes on, you will find yourself keeping up with district activities.

Each year when Gym Night, Prom and Graduation approaches you'll think of your favorite memories and the special times. Your pride in being a Redskin will grow each year. When you meet people, one of the most popular questions asked is "where did you go to high school?"

Proudly you will respond-Neshaminy!

High School is the starting point to bigger things. You will move on, make new friends and hopefully find your way in life, but you will always have your Neshaminy memories. You will find that the lessons that you have learned here will shape the rest of your life.

So, as you move into the next chapter of your life, challenge yourself to make a difference, even if it is in one person's life.

Ask the question, how do I want to be remembered in the world? Whatever it may be, make a promise to yourself to never quit until you reach your goals.

Congratulations and Best Wishes, Mr. Ritchey

It has been a great year here at Neshaminy High School. The seniors have really led the way in the hallways and classrooms and on the playing fields and in the arts. Your time in the high school has gone by quickly and you are now ready to move on into unchartered waters.

I wish you the best that the world has to offer and I hope you will look back on your days at Neshaminy and recall the good times that you had and the wonderful experiences that you were given throughout your entire education.

Wishing you the best and please remember that we are always here for you and are willing to assist you in any way that we can. Take care and Congratulations!!!

Mrs. Pennington

Class adviser looks back on time together

Dear Class of 2010,

Finally! The Class of 2010 is graduating from Neshaminy High School. It seems like just yesterday when you were nervous sophomores entering the MODS for your breakout session at the New Student Orientation. In the past 3 years, we have been through a lot; from dances to proms, and even a few trips. You were asked to get involved in activities and you did.

As I look back on the past three years, I have many fond memories. In April of 2005, we had a very successful Sophomore Dinner Dance, "Escape to the Orient". Nearly 500 students attended the class' first social event. Everyone enjoyed a night of dancing and fun with friends in a transformed Gym 3. Oh, and who could forget the amazing dragon that greeted everyone as they entered the gymnasium?

In September of 2008, you returned to Neshaminy High School as Juniors. We immediately started to plan the Junior trip to Williamsburg and the Junior Prom at King's Caterers. Everyone who attended had an incredible time.

Our trip to Virginia was one of the best class trips that I have ever done. I am sure those of you that went will never forget the fun we had at King's Dominion, Busch Gardens, The Spirit of Norfolk and in Washington; well, actually I think it was Maryland since the weather turned on us and we had to go to the Arundel Mills Mall to stay safe.

May 22, 2010 brought us to the Senior Prom at the Sheraton City Center Hotel In Philadelphia. Over 840 students attended, a record number. The boys were sharply dressed in tuxedos and the girls in their gowns were beautiful. The theme, "Ever the Same" brought the evening to a close. My most fond memory is that of all the smiles on your faces as you left the Sheraton.

At this very busy time I hope you all take a moment to reflect on your years here at Neshaminy High School. I am sure you have your own fond recollections of the Neshaminy High School, Class of 2010.

On a personal note, I would like to thank the class officers, Michael Morris, President; Andrew Keeling, Vice-President; Cori Duco, Secretary; Chi Chi Do-Nguyen, Treasurer; and Annabelle Abdo, Historian. Without their dedication, hard work and perseverance the past three years would not have been so successful.

This year was a unique year in that I also had the opportunity to work with Student Council as their advisor. I would also like to thank Brian Titus, Jaclyn Huston, Gina Gonnella, Alexa Bell and Becca Boyd for all of their hard work planning three Dodgeball Tournaments and the Mr. Redskin competition. Dodgeball raised over $3,000.00 this year for local charities. Well done!

For all of you I wish you good health, happiness and great success in your future endeavors. Thank you for all of the memories that I will forever treasure!

Mr. Richard D. Kain, Class Advisor 2010

Newspaper adviser says final goodbye Oh my sweet, little chickadees, is it run make sure you don't forget your ad-

Oh my sweet, little chickadees, is it that time of year again already? First and foremost, I apologize for scaring all of you in the beginning of the year when I admitted that I knew absolutely nothing about running a newspaper. I realize now that that wasn't exactly the best way to start the first day of school. However, I must say I learned so much from each and every single one of you and now that this year has finally come to a close, I know I can handle almost anything that comes my way.

To my dearest Editor in Chief, Jenna, aka Harvard, I simply could not have done it without you. You are my hero. If it hadn't been for you, I would have been found hidden under a table crying by the third day of school. I can't wait to hear about all of the wonderful things you accomplish in your college years.

Ellen, Managing Editor, you're pretty special, too. You made our layout days a lot of fun by doing interpretive dances to random songs. I may have to steal some of your sweet moves. However, for future reference, next time you do a food

CJ, Business Editor, ugghhh. I guess I'll miss you, I mean, who wouldn't miss someone judging them every second of every day? All kidding aside, I think you have a lot of talent, I just wish you didn't keep it all to yourself.

To the rest of my Playwickian staff - you are all fantastic, super, amazing people. You have made my world a much better place just by being you. All of the hours we've spent together forced us to get to know each other quite well and I'm so fortunate to have gotten that chance. I know I'm going to find myself repeating something from our quote wall one day and have no one to laugh with.

Dan, Tori, and Lera: you are the future. I know you'll make me proud next year, I just wish I could be there with you to witness all of your success. But if you find yourself in need of a good laugh, just follow the sound of the girl from "Kittens Inspired by Kittens" and I'll be there surrounded by people awkwardly staring at me.

Two-year Special Features editors peace out

Wow, I can't believe it's been three years. What a time I've had. I've met so many new people I never would have bothered to talk to had it not been for the paper. This goodbye is not without emotions. I am genuinely going to miss this class. Just goofing off during class and then stressing to get layout done in time. My time as an editor has been really special. There were times I thought about quitting but then I realized that wasn't an option. I don't quit. Through all the laughs, tears, both joy and pain, and headaches, I've finally made it through. Being on the paper has taught me so much. Although I'm not going into a Journalism career, I can still take the skills and virtues I've learned here with me.

To my underclassmen: I have a few words of advice. Strive through everything with a smile on your face. There will be troubles and drama, but there is always the cliched light at the end of the tunnel. Keep pushing through. Keep building the reputation of this newspaper.

I'm especially going to miss my coeditor Stacey. Stace, we've been through thick and thin. We've had our disagreements and drama but we've made it through the storm and here we are. These past two years with you have been some of my favorite moments. Have a great time at the University of the Sciences.

Go Terps!!! Danielle Olander

The past three years have gone by so much faster than I expected. Truth be told, I've actually been waiting to graduate since I got here. But I guess looking back now, there's so much I'm gonna miss. One of those things is the Playwickian. I've learned so much this from being a part of the newspaper. It's taught me to work hard, and to deal with people even when I don't want to so we can get the job done. It also taught me that even if I don't want to work on something, I need to give it my all for things like this because it's not just me involved, and those are important lessons for anyone to learn in high school.

I'll never forget the broken, slow computers, or the countless times that the newspaper office ran out of paper for the printer. We had some amazing times in that club, and I hope that all future editors and writers won't forget to have fun during all the stress from layout.

I also want to thank my co-editor for all her hard work. As different as we are, working with her has been a pleasure. She picked up where I'd slack off, and I'd do the same for her. Working with you for the past two years is definitely an experiance I won't forget. I hope you have a wonderful time in Maryland. Good luck!!

Sincerely, Stacey Mathew

Meshaminy's First To-Be-Annual Mr. Redskin Competition

OnTuesday, April 20, Neshaminy High School celebrated its first to-be-annual Mr. Redskin competition in the auditorium. Several male seniors, including Student Office Vice President Andrew Keeling and National Honor Society President Kyle O'Donnell, participated in a gruelling pageant to earn the title of "Mr. Redskin." The event was organized by the Student Council. The contestants had to complete several levels of judging, including a personal statement, a talent portrayal, and a swimsuit walk. O'Donnell was eventually given the crown, and hopefully, he will use his newly acquired position to give back.

Senior advice to the underclassmen

1.DO NOT PET THE FRESHMEN! As we all know from this previous year that plan does not work out too well.

- 2.Do not slack off in school. Grades are one of the things you have complete control over and those records do follow you throughout your life. Do not make the grades for your parents either, have pride in yourself and you can have much more success in life. Remember, all four years count.
- 3. About the teachers contract disputes...make sure you learn as much as you can about both sides before you decide to take actions on your own.
- 4.Get involved! It is never too late to join sports or a club. It is a good way to make new friends and stay active. It also looks good on college resumes. Also make sure to participate in Gym Night at least once your high school career. It is truly a once in a lifetime thing and it really brings the school together.
- 5.Get to lunch early on beefy cheesy nacho day. It pays off:)

Your day begins with thunderous bull-chasing music

You're often trampled in the hub because many students believe they are on UFC (but it is actually equivalent to the Hills)

You were forced to casually wipe the snot from your nose onto a desk for half the year

You have gotten in more trouble for being 3 minutes late to school, than you were for being absent the entire day

You spent half the day dreaming about Beefie Cheesies, and then spent the next half of the day in the nurse's office.

You've gotten in trouble by a senior, or hall monitor, for seating on the glorious concrete wall that is "The Senior Ledge"

You have had the misfortune of an anonymous hall monitor singing loudly and out of tune in your face

You've waited since you were 12 to get to high school, hate it for a while, then slowly realize you just might actually miss this place

What do you plan on doing after high school?

Megan Dickson

"Study meterology and become the next Glen 'Hurricane' Schwattz."

Corey Jackson

"Thinking of new ways on how I can go another year of living off my parents."

Any advice on surviving senior year?

Kelly Kerr

"Go on Co-Op!"

Demetría Pressley

"If you're not smart, at least make sure you look fly!"

Through the years, it just keeps getting better.....
